LONDON OFFICE LOCATION

The London Wood Street Centre is positioned in the City of London business hub in a landmark glass building designed by renowned architect Sir Richard Rogers. Businesses at the address cover everything from training and publishing to executive recruitment. Neighbouring companies work in a variety of fields including financial services and banking, IT and law. Located on the 10th and 11th floors, the centre's offices offer a bird's eye view of London, taking in sights such as St Paul's Cathedral, The Thames, The Oxo Tower, the London Eye and the Barbican.

The building has internal lifts and with wall-to-ceiling windows, the offices are full of natural light. This modern building also boasts solar controlled blinds. Several London Underground stations are within walking distance and London's West End is a short bus, tube or taxi ride away.
